49th Year ◆ No. 15 | Serving the West Sacramento Region Since 1964 | Wednesday, November 14, 2012

Some West Sac election results are still a little fuzzy:

25 percent of local vote remains to be counted, but it's pretty clear that voters rejected council challenger Oscar Maskaev

PRELIMARY ELECTION RESULTS IN WEST SACRAMENTO:

West Sacramento Mayor (two-year term)

Christopher Cabaldon (incumbent, unopposed)	10,287 votes	100%

West Sacramento City Council (top two, 4-year term)

William 'Bill' Kristoff (incumbent)	8,262 votes	45.7%
Oscar E. Villegas (incumbent)	8,035	44.5%
Oscar Maskaev	1,768	9.8%

Washington Unified School District (top three, 4-year term)

Katie Villegas	6,169 votes	24.6%
Alicia Cruz	4,915	19.6%
Mary M. Leland (incumbent)	4,598	18.3%
Dave Westin (incumbent)	4,510	18.0%
Coby Pizotti	1,930	7.7%
Walt R. Bowman	1,496	6.0%
Roy Sianez	1,469	5.9%

Measure G: Advisory Measure Regarding City Revenue

Yes	10,269 votes	87.4%
No	1,483	12.6%

All precincts have reported, although some provisional & absentee ballots remain to be counted. The County Clerk reports West Sacramento voter turnout at 12,655 out of 23,168 registered voters, or 54.6%.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento voters spoke last week on several local issues.

A week later, what we know almost for certain is that city council incumbents Bill Kristoff and Oscar Villegas fended off professional boxer Oleg Maskaev to retain their seats on the council, and Christopher Cabaldon will get another term as mayor. He ran unopposed.

It's also pretty clear that challenger Katie Villegas, executive director of the Yolo County Children's Alliance, will get a seat on the local school board.

But with absentee ballots and provisional ballots that made up about a quarter of the local vote still to be tallied, it's less obvious which other two candidates will win a school board term.

Second place candidate Alicia Cruz has 4,915 votes so far, followed by incumbent Mary Leland at 4,598 and incumbent Dave Westin with 4,510. With 3,000 ballots yet to be fully processed, that cluster – particularly the 88-vote spread between Leland and Westin – doesn't look overly secure. There's only room for two of those three candidates to join Villegas as winners in the Washington Unified School District race.

"Between provisional ballots and absentee ballots that were dropped off at the polling places, I would estimate a little over 3,000 remain to be counted (in the West Sacramento race)," said spokesperson Tom Stanionis of the Yolo Elections Department. "That's about 25 percent of the votes cast."

What are "provisional" ballots?

"When somebody shows up at a polling place and they aren't on the list, or they are on the list but they were mailed an absentee ballot which they can't find or produce, we go through and research each one to see if that person can vote. Typically, they're voting in the wrong place."

The elections department is allowed up to 28 days to finish its vote count, but Stanionis said staff at the Woodland office would like to finish earlier – perhaps ahead of Thanksgiving next week.

Villegas – top candidate in the school district race – told the News-Ledger she is "super excited" about her apparent top finish. She's over a thousand votes

Pair allegedly toss loaded gun from car, police arrest one man but can't locate the second suspect

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Police tried but failed to find a fleeing suspect Friday night after a pair of men in a car allegedly tossed a loaded handgun out the door during a traffic stop. The search led police to "set up a perimeter" near downtown West Sacramento and use a loudspeaker to warn citizens to remain indoors.

The incident started at about 11 p.m. when an officer tried to pull over the suspects' car near West Capitol Avenue and Sycamore Avenue.

"It slowed down, and the gun was tossed out the window," reported Lieutenant Tod Sockman of the West Sacramento Police Department. "It went forward a couple more blocks before stopping."

But as the car stopped, a male passenger in the front seat "bailed" from the car and took off on foot. The driver, 20-year old Santiago Herrera Valois of West Sacramento, was taken into custody without incident.

Backtracking, police found a loaded 9 mm Luger handgun in a storm drain. The gun was confirmed as stolen. Valois, a felon, faces several charges including possession of a firearm.

A Sacramento County helicopter and a K-9 unit joined in the search for the missing passenger, with one witness reporting that the search area included the neighborhood near Merkley Avenue and Evergreen Avenue.

They did not find or ID him, reports Sockman.

State says West Sac handled redevelopment assets properly

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento has become the first California city to be certified by the state controller as a clean bill of health in the manner in which the city "wound down" its redevelopment agency assets.

When the state abolished redevelopment agencies in a revenue-raising maneuver, cities like this one were left with property assets – some of them major – that were owned by the redevelopment agency, but suddenly in danger of being divvied up and parceled out. West Sacramento handled its redevelopment assets in various ways, putting acreage near Stone Lock under purchase option to the locally-controlled Port of Sacramento, and moving small potential "right of way" properties along roadways to the city itself.

Mayor Christopher Cabaldon

The office of State Controller John Chiang has just announced that transfers like these were in compliance with the law. The properties transferred to the city served an obvious governmental purpose, he said.

At the same time, his office found the City of Hercules inappropriately handled $51.1 million of its assets, which must now be turned over to the local

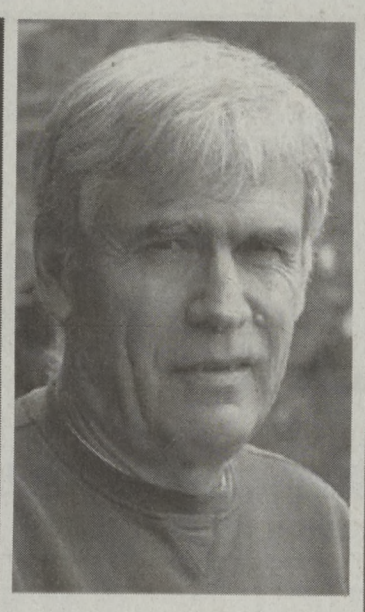
Sometimes, the old ways were better

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

I was recently talking on the phone to an old friend of mine who lives way back in the state of Virginia and we were discussing why we thought the presidential election ended up the way it did.

"Well," said my friend, "the Republicans out here think it was because Hurricane Sandy stopped Romney's momentum."

"What momentum?"

"Well," said my friend, "I guess since the Fox news people didn't believe in polls, they needed to get their viewers to believe in something, and momentum was apparently it. But to tell you the truth, I think Romney's stance on things like self-deportation and never raising taxes on the rich and not favoring equal pay for women are what really did him in. That and the fact that Obama's people ran a really professional campaign in terms of the ground game that is apparently needed to win elections nowadays. Anyway, I'm just thrilled that the whole bloody thing is finally over! These things go on much too long and there's been some kind of campaigning going on around here for about the last 18 months. Believe me, you are so lucky that you don't live in a swing state!"

"How so?" I asked with interest.

"Well," he explained, "in addition to all the junk mail and phone calls from different candidates and their supporters, we have had endless television ads for months and months now. And most of them are full of lies and half-truths and they're really nasty and negative, with each side more or less calling the other every name in the book."

"You know," I said, "that kind of nastiness has actually been a part of American politics since this country's first presidential election."

"Well, maybe so, but It couldn't have possibly been as bad back then as it is now," my friend assured me.

"It was actually worse," I said, "and it's really interesting to go back and read some of the old newspapers and pamphlets where supporters of their favorite founding father called each other horrible things. It was really pretty vicious stuff. In fact, that is how Vice President Aaron Burr ended up shooting Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton dead on a New York dueling field way back in the early 1800s. You've read all about that, right?"

"Refresh my memory," said my friend.

"Well, Aaron Burr's hatred of Alexander Hamilton actually went back to the American Revolution when they were both aides to General Washington and Hamilton convinced Washington that Burr could not be trusted with important duties. Then, over the years, as they both got higher up in our new government, it was Hamilton who went out of his way to keep Burr out of high office, including finding ways to shift votes around so that Thomas Jefferson was elected president in 1801 instead of Burr. Anyway, a few years later a paper printed that Hamilton had said Burr was a dangerous man who could not be trusted with the reins of government and when Burr read it, he demanded that Hamilton publicly take those words back, which meant that Hamilton would basically have to say Burr was a gentleman rather than a scoundrel. And when Hamilton refused to do so, Burr challenged him to a duel which resulted in a bullet going through Hamilton's stomach and lodging in his spine, and he died from that mortal wound a few days later."

"You know," said my friend, his voice suddenly cheerful, "now maybe that's the answer!"

"Answer to what?"

"You know, the answer to getting some civility back into our political discourse. Maybe all we need to do is legalize dueling!"

"Very funny," I said.

"I'm not kidding," said my friend, returning my laugh. "Think about it, Harry Reid and Mitch McConnell out on a misty morning dueling field. I mean, only good could come from that. And I bet if Rush Limbaugh and some of those other radio commentators who say such hateful things about their political enemies knew that someone just might stroll up to them and slap them upside the head with a pair of white gloves and tell them they needed to go find themselves a second, their tune would change in a real big hurry! Plus think how happy the NRA would be if we could all go back to dueling again. I bet new gun sales would go right through the roof!"

"There's just one little problem with that," I said.

"What's that?"

"With all this current hatred between our two political parties, all that bloodshed would get quickly out of hand."

"Are you kidding? I bet they'd all start behaving like little angels for fear of ending up just like Alexander Hamilton!"

Burr emanded that Hamilton publicly take those words back, which meant that Hamilton would basically have to say Burr was a gentleman rather than a scoundrel. And when Hamilton refused to do so, Burr challenged him to a duel.

ahead of second-place Cruz. Why does she think she succeeded?

"I worked seven days a week for about 10 weeks on this campaign," she said. "I hit about 3,000 homes walking precincts. I think (the win came from) everything combined – the hard work, the message, and the work I've already done in the community," she said.

Does she have a plan for "day one" when she's seated on the board next month?

"I think I still have a lot of meetings before day one," Villegas answered. "There's a school board conference, meeting with the (district) cabinet, touring schools. I think I'll be getting up to speed pretty quickly."

Westin, at least for the moment, appears to be losing his seat on the school board. But swing of about 90 votes could change that.

"With 3,000 votes not being counted, and the race so close, it's too early to tell," he commented to the News-Ledger.

Westin is perhaps the board's best-known member in recent years, serving as president of the board during a period of dramatic student test gains.

Westin thinks some campaigning against him by an independent group is responsible for his current fourth-place in the standings.

"We ran a clean, honest, positive campaign," said Westin. "They ran a closing-in-on $50,000 special interest, developer-funded attack campaign specifically designed to go after me on false, misleading and inaccurate information. . . if they hadn't run that, this would have been a blow-out result."

Westin was referring to mailers by the "Keep West Sacramento Moving Forward" organization claiming the school district is a "mess," and that claimed only eight high school juniors out of 500 here "are considered 'college ready.'"

Their mailers urged a "no" vote on Westin. One mailer featured Mayor Cabaldon and Yolo County Supervisor suggesting "yes" votes on competitors Villegas, Leland and Cruz.

"successor agency" to the redevelopment agency in Hercules.

"We're the first city in the state to have a completely clear audit," Mayor Christopher Cabaldon told the News-Ledger. "The controller's office was auditing whether the transactions that occurred as the redevelopment agency was winding down were appropriate. Some cities had problems."

How much property did West Sacramento move out of the agency?

"In the range of $70 million, with some as large as parts of the Stone Lock District and some more like 50 square feet," he said. "Most are not really high-value properties, like those rights-of-way. Our concern was that if we gave them up and they went to auction, somebody could pick them up for next to nothing because they had no development value. Then they could essentially hold us hostage and try to extort the taxpayers for huge sums of money because we need them (for road expansions and such)."

The audit process isn't over, said the mayor. The state still needs to sign off that West Sacramento transferred some of its pre-existing tax obligations in a legal manner. The redevelopment agency had committed some of the local property tax increment to projects like the Bridge District and Stone Lock District, and the state needs to give approval for those commitments to continue.

Special election date chosen:

After controversy, voters will choose Vargas replacement on Washington Unified board

West Sacramento's school board has chosen Tuesday, March 5, as the day to hold a special election for an existing school board vacancy.

Sandra Vargas, former member of the board, resigned in August to create the vacancy. The resignation came too late for the position to be added to last week's regular election ballot.

The remainder of the board then solicited applicants and chose resident Elizabeth Bagdazian to fill the remaining two-years-plus of Vargas's term.

But a coalition of local residents, supported by Mayor Christopher Cabaldon, circulated a petition calling for the appointment to be overturned and the vacant seat to go before a vote. State law allows for such a petition.

The trustees of the Washington Unified School District chose to make the special election an "all mail" ballot -- a cheaper option than the usual election with polling places. Yolo County is part of a pilot program that allows for some mail-only voting in California.

Those interested in running for the vacant seat have until Dec. 7 to file. They may pick up forms at the Yolo County Elections Office, 625 Court Street, Room B05 in Woodland. For information, call (530) 666-8133.

Finally, in the novel's title story, a betrayed wife chronicles her pain and pens a brutally honest letter to her husband's mistress. "When it happens to you, you will ask him why he would choose to forsake this good, sweet life that you carefully built together for a girl who couldn't begin to understand him," Ringwald writes. "And then you'll realize that is partially the point. He doesn't want to be understood. He wants to be misunderstood because in the misunderstanding lies the possibility of reinvention."

In her debut novel, Ringwald examines the nuances of the most intimate of relationships and portrays how the ties that bind can easily become threads that fray if not properly nurtured.

GO FIGURE! by Linda Thistle

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

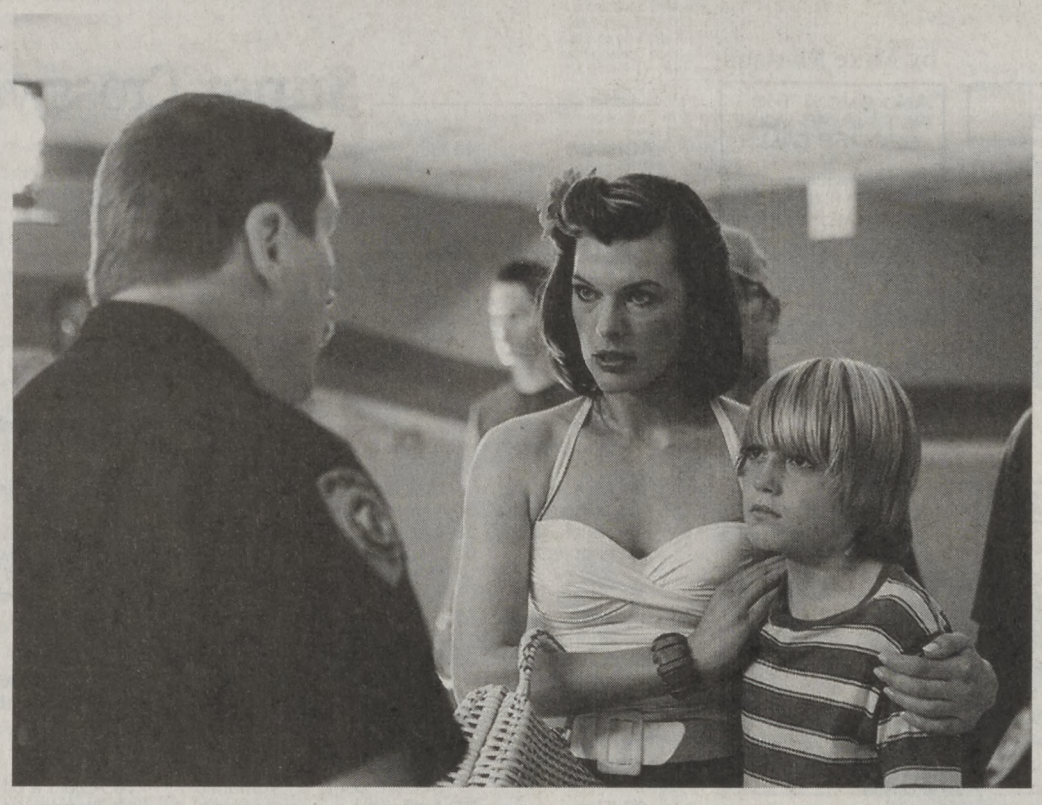
PICKS OF THE WEEK

"The Expendables 2" (PG-13) -- The mean, pulpy-looking action heroes of yesteryear are back for another lighthearted bullet-fest. Sylvester Stallone, Bruce Willis, Ahnuld, Jet Li, Dolph Lundgren and some other dudes join up with Chuck Norris to defeat the evil Jean Villain, (Jean-Claude Van Damme, and yes the bad guy of the movie is really named "Villain.")

This is not a revival of the tough-guys, huge-guns action genre of the '80s, but more of a self-mocking reunion special. Schwarzenegger and Willis have to cram into a tiny car. They trade dozens of one-liners referencing more famous one-liners. Things explode quite frequently. It's a lot of fun, depending on how much you enjoy jokes about Predator and Terminator.

"Grave of the Fireflies" [Blu-ray] -- Originally released in 1988, this classic work of dramatic animation is coming to Blu-ray. Set in the final days of World-War II, Seita and Setsuko are children from a small town on the mainland of Japan. The children are torn from their home by bombing raids and must find their way to safety as more of the countryside is engulfed in flames.

Ghibli Studio produces amazing animated films. This movie is more serious than its usual work, but keeps the same artistic standard. It's a tremendously sad story, filled with glimpses of intense beauty.



Milla Jovovich and Spencer List in 'Bringing Up Bobby'

"Bringing Up Bobby" (PG-13) -- Olive (Milla Jovovich of "Resident Evil") is a Ukranian-born con artist and single mother. Her precocious 10-year-old boy, Bobby (Spencer List), has a bowl cut and a million lines of adoration for his mother. The two are partners in crime, scamming their way across the American Midwest. Things turn from overtly cute to ham-handed melodrama when an accident gets Bobby in trouble and Olive has to become a lawful, non-scheming person. The whole affair has an awkward, first-time director feel to it. A good choice if you want to catch a nap during a movie and not feel too left out.

"Black Magic" (1949) -- Orson Welles goes all-in on this hammy psycho-thriller about the POWERS OF THE MIND! Welles is Cagliostro, a hypnotist traveling with gypsies in some bygone era that demanded elaborate costuming and ridiculous set pieces. Cagliostro starts abusing his powers then gets reeled into a scheme to replace the queen of France. In many scenes, Welles gives the camera his most smoldering stares as the light filters directly onto his eyes. If you love the majesty and drama of "Citizen Kane," then you can suffer through "Black Magic" and have a few laughs along the way.

"When It Happens to You"
By Molly Ringwald
(Harper Collins, $24.99)
Review by Rose McAllister Croke

Actress Molly Ringwald makes a powerful literary debut by exploring the themes of betrayal, infidelity, infertility, estrangement and gender identity in "When It Happens to You." The book, described as "a novel told in stories," is centered around Phillip and Greta, a Los Angeles couple whose marriage is on the brink of dissolution.

The characters reveal the darkest parts of themselves, with each character making either a terrible mistake or a life-altering choice. All of the characters muddle through their own emotionally eviscerating experiences and struggle to arrive at a place of forgiveness and acceptance.

In "The Harvest Moon," a stay-at-home mother struggles with her self-worth in the face of aging, infertility and an increasingly distant husband. In "Ursa Minor," a former children's television star re-examines his life when his acting career stalls after a stint in rehab. An elderly woman mourns the loss of her husband and her estranged relationship with her only child in "The Little One." In "My Olivia," a conflicted single mother struggles to protect her 6-year-old son who wishes only to wear dresses and be addressed as "Olivia."

The Kitchen Diva

Dried Fruit and Oat Cookies Are the Perfect Snack

While the bounty of summer fruits has ended, dried fruits offer a healthy alternative and are a good choice when fresh fruits aren't available. Dried fruits are devoid of the water content that is so characteristic of fruits. Fruits are dried by drawing out the water content, either by sun-drying or using specialized machines. Once in their dried phase, the fruits can be stored for a longer period of time and continue to provide basic nutrients. Some of the most common dried fruits are apricots, raisins, plums, dates, prunes, cranberries, blueberries and figs.

Dried fruits retain all the nutrients that are present in whole fruits. They're full of vitamins, minerals, fiber, iron, magnesium, calcium, phosphorus and sugar. The infusion of these nutrients helps in promoting overall health and keeping us free of diseases, as well as devoid of fatigue.

Dried fruits also are high in fiber, which lends to several benefits. Fiber helps to draw water into the system, bringing about effective digestion. Along with improving digestion, fiber also helps in cleansing the system by drawing out the layers of waste and impurities, which automatically prevents the onset of constipation and other diseases associated with bladder problems. This promotes great skin health, because the flushing of toxins leads to healthy and clear skin that is free of all skin conditions.

Dried fruits are infused with iron, which is an important nutrient for the promotion of health. Iron allows for the production of hemoglobin. This nutrient will promote the production of white blood cells which are important for fighting of diseases and preventing conditions like anemia, other blood diseases, fatigue and weakness in the body. Dried fruits are also packed with antioxidants which prevent the onset of free radicals, and are high content of calcium, which promotes healthy bones and teeth as well as better eyesight.

The consumption of dried fruits, in measured amounts, also helps with weight loss. The fiber in the dried fruit makes you feel full for a longer period of time, making it the perfect snack. Dried fruits also are one of the best options to choose before exercise in place of carbs, because they provide for steady bursts of energy and help to sustain a heavy workout.

The next time you're in need of a healthy snack, try this healthy, fiber-filled recipe for Fruit and Oat Cookies!

FRUIT AND OAT COOKIES

1/3 cup coconut oil or vegetable oil
3 large bananas
1/4 cup agave syrup or honey
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups rolled oats
1/2 cup oat bran
1 1/2 cups mixed dried fruits, chopped
3/4 cup chopped pecans

1. Preheat oven to 350 F.

2. In a large bowl, mash bananas until smooth. Mix oil into the mashed bananas. Add the syrup or honey, vanilla and salt.

3. Stir in rolled oats, oat bran, dried fruits and nuts. Drop by rounded tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Flatten slightly. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes, rotating cookie sheets for even browning. Cool on wire rack. Store in tightly closed container in refrigerator.

In Memory of
TONI LYNN RAZO

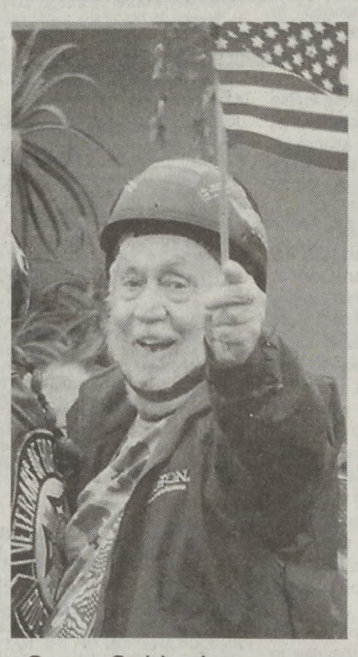
Toni was born Jan. 14, 1964, and passed away on October 25, 2012 in Marysville, California.

She is survived by her father, Peter J. Razo, mother Carol Cartago, stepmother Jessie Chavez, sister Grace Razo, by her longtime friend James Cummins and by many nephews and nieces.

She had the greatest personality that could make anyone laugh.

At her request, no services were held. Cremation arrangements were handled by River Cities Funeral Chapel.

In Memory of
OSCAR CALDER



Oscar Calder in a recent Veterans Day Parade

Oscar Calder, one of the senior residents of Escaton's Woodrow Wilson Manor, passed away October 26, at age 83, due to complications from cardiac surgery.

He was born January 25, 1929 in Oklahoma to Oscar and Mildred Calder. He graduated from Compton High School, then moved with his family to Dixon and engaged in hay harvesting and trucking with his father and uncle. He served in the U.S. Army in the Korean War as an ordinance specialist. He worked as a lineman for the L.A. Department of Water and Power until an industrial accident forced his retirement.

He was a respected member and sponsor to many at East Yolo Fellowship and recently became a thirty-year "Friend of Bill W."

He is survived by his daughters, Melody Larrabee of Leeds, New York, Harmony Mott of Santa Clarita, and son, Bill Calder of Hesperia, thirty-year companion, Jean Weber and her daughters, Rebecca and Rachel of West Sacramento, brother, Frank Calder of Carmichael, and life-long pal, Bill Hines of West Sacramento. Also by Betty Lindman, of Hesperia, the mother of his children, and three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

His favorite activities were attending the Sunday 10:00 a.m. meeting at East Yolo Fellowship and dining at King's Restaurant in West Sacramento.

The staff at Woodrow Wilson Manor, particularly Jessie Fordham, made his senior years safe and comfortable. The Escaton "Thrill of a Lifetime" program provided him with a modified motorcycle ride in the Memorial Day parade this year as an honored veteran.

He doted on his twins, Grace and Julia Hines of West Sacramento, as their "Uncle Junior."

The family wishes to recognize the faithful visits made during his long hospitalization by Fernando and Anna Montes, who made many trips from their home in Southern California to provide Oscar with emotional and spiritual support.

As we bid farewell to this beloved man, we take solace in the thought that THEY ARE NOT DEAD, WHO LIVE IN LIVES THEY LEAVE BEHIND, IN THOSE HOM THEY HAVE BLESSED, THEY LIVE A LIFE AGAIN.

A memorial service was held Sunday, November 11th at East Yolo Friendship.

Oscar will be interred with his parents in Dixon Cemetery. His urn will be buried in the spring.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale.
